

Should My Parents Get a Reverse Mortgage?

CHILDREN AND CAREGIVERS

If you're a caregiver to a senior citizen (or have senior family members), you might have heard the term "reverse mortgage."

Reverse mortgages let Americans 62 and older convert part of their home equity (wealth) into cash without selling their home. This can be an effective way for seniors to supplement monthly expenses or prepare for unexpected costs (such as medical bills).

Reverse mortgages aren't required to be paid back while the recipient lives in the home, and the recipient keeps the title to the home. This means they're still responsible for paying property taxes, homeowner's insurance, HOA fees, and maintaining the home.

Eligibility Requirements:

- Be 62 years or older*
- Must be living in home as primary residence; vacation homes and investment properties do not qualify
- Complete a HUD-approved counseling session
- Must be able to pay property taxes, homeowners insurance, and any applicable HOA fees.

*In Texas both borrowers must be 62 or older
